VOYCE

A KA3-EYT project, with a partnership of 9 European countries, put young people in the driver's seat and gave them the tools to learn how to present their ideas and represent their positions on various social issues (education & training, employment & labour rights, environment & sustainable consumption, smart mobility, democracy & equality) in front of institutions or any kind of public. This goal was achieved through a series of youth-oriented activities & specifically local working groups of young people in all partner countries, a social Hackathon, a co-creation process of various projects by the young people with the support of youth workers and experts, and a crowdfunding that supported the best ideas.

JOUR-YOU

The project begins at the local level, where young participants will take part in workshops and debates to explore the 11 European Youth Goals, develop public speaking and advocacy skills, and learn how to create and share content responsibly. Each group will then select a key topic and work on a script, leading to the creation of 11 short films—the first-ever European series fully written and produced by young people.

Through strategic communication and outreach, VISYON will elevate youth voices to local authorities and European policymakers, ensuring that young people's perspectives actively shape the future of European policies.
